

Youth Transition Program

The Youth Transition Program is a school-to-work program at Philomath High School that works with High School student's ages 16 through 21 in promoting work experience and job training skills with local employers. YTP works in collaboration with Vocational Rehabilitation through the Department of Human Services to ease student transition from High School to competitive employment.